The Kid Uses Cigars and Brandy When So Inclined-Conclusions Drawn from Foot-ball Dates-Ice Hockey Stirs Enthusiasm New Fighting Club Organized. The signal victory of Osear Gardner over

Solly Smith at the Lenox A. C. on Tuesday night is further evidence that the "Omaha " is a remarkable pugilist. Gardner did not train very hard for the mill, but got into have by indulging in contests in various parts of the country with lesser lights. Before he reighed in on Tuesday afternoon Gardner smoked several cigars. He also took a brandy and sods after his dinner at 6 o'clock. This has been a habit with him for a long time, yet he has never failed to enter the ring in superb ondition. The manner in which he chased aggressive Smith around the ring showed his calibre better than anything else, and when the crisis came in the sixth round Gardner developed speed and strength enough to beat almost anybody. When Gardner was de-feated by Smith several years ago at the Broadway A. C. his hands were no: in good shape. He has had considerable trouble with them since, he says, but they are now so hardened that it is a difficult matter to injure them. In his recent twenty-five-round contest with Champion Dixon, Gardner says he was handiin the affray. The most remarkable thing about the Kid is his ability to make almost any weight between 115 and 130 pounds. He weighed 123 when he tackled Smith on Tuesday night, but explained to THE SUN man that he could get down to 115 in three days if necessary and be strong at that.

I would like to meet McGovern at 115 pounds," he said, "or Palmer at 118, 120, 122 or any weight. I would also enjoy another chance at George Dixon, especially as my hands are fine just now." Gardner within the next month will meet Bernstein, Johnny Van Heest, Sam Bolen, Martin Flaherty, and one or two other featherweights in limited-round bouts. He says he believes in keeping himself busy, so that he can get the money while it is in sight. In disposition Gardner is quiet and sight. In disposition Gardner is quiet and unassuming. He likes to fight and believes that studies that studies pay. He is not a stickler for conditions governing his contests, but says he can box any old way." Smith's superpart quitting when he was under fire caused many of the sports to recall his light with Dave Sullivan at Concy Island last fall. They remembered that when Sullivan seemingly had the fight well in hand Smith suddenly stopped, because, he said, he had broken his arm. At the time there were many skeptics, who now believe that they were correct in the belief that the Californian had had enough. A story was told yesterday of a battle between Smith and teardner held at Buffalo some time ago. Gardner, unheralded, came to that city and said he wanted to light anybody. He had never been heard of before, but when Solly Smith bobbed up he expressed a desire to meet the Californian wanted to light anyondy. He had not been to before, but when Solly Smith bobbed up he expressed a desire to meet the Californian. When they got into the ring Gardner lost no time in scrambling all over Smith in the first three rounds. The latter was rattled but in the fifth he got Gardner's measure, and, with a heavy punch on the jaw, he made the kid wabble. Then Smith rushed and Gardner, seeing a left-hand upper out coming with full large, quickly dropped to his hands and knees and received the blow on the head while in that position. Gardner rolled over, apparently unconscious and the referee declared him the winner on a foul. Possibly Smith had this incident in mind when Gardner was putting on the pressure in the sixth round on Tuesday night. But the Californian was not a clever actor.

At a stag party held over in Jersey the other night a boxer with a remarkable head of footbell hair appeared in a bout with a singger of local renown. In the first round the boxer relived such an unmerciful pummelling that his hair was in his eyes and mouth when he went to his corner. The spectators were then electrified by rise action of the boxer's second, who produced a comb and brush and carefully adjusted the disordered locks. The next innovation to be made may include a quick shave between rounds for some of the tough young men who rarely patronize barber shops.

he hockey as played in local rinks appears to be more productive of exciting incidents than ever before. The Amateur League series has stirred up partisans so that at times there is considerable ill feeling. Women, too, who parronize the games are tempted to show their ceitings when their favorite teams do not win. Matters have come to such a pass that the presiding officials have troubles similar to those of the persecuted baseball umpires. At presiding officials have troubles similar to those of the persecuted baseball umpires. At one of the games the other night, because the officials decided that a goal had been made on a very close play, there was an outbreak of disapproval from the spectators that rivalled some of the incidents of disorder at the Pole Grounds hat season. The matter was helped along by the actions of some of the players, who openly protested against the decision. Officials are always liable to make mistakes, but it is not considered sportsmanlike to abuse them with charges of intentional unfairness. Ice hockey involves so many rapid plays that it is impossible to follow the movements of the puck with accuracy. Therefore it is not at all surprising that officials are sometimes wrong in their rulings. wrong in their rulings.

The announcement of Yale's football dates with Harvard and Princeton settles a mild controversy that has been going on for some time past. It was Yale's desire to play Harvard next fail, after the game with Princeton, but it is understood that a number of Nasau aiumni used their influence in the matter, and Yale finally yielded. As a result Yale and Harvard meet at Boldiers Field, Cambridge, on Nov. 18, and the Yale-Princeton game will be played at New Haven on Nov. 20. This arrangement causes many football men to ask whether Princeton will consent to play a game with the University of Pennsylvania at an earlier date. It is agreed that the Tigers need one hard game before they meet Yale, and as a contest with Harvard appears to be out of the question, it is natural for some of the Princeton supporters to look to the Quakers for a match. There is plenty of time between now and next fall for Princetonians to agitate the matter, for it rests entirely with them whether agame shall be arranged. The University of Pennsylvania is willing to renew relations with Princeton, and there are many students at the New Jersey college who are of the same opinion. The Quakers have already agreed to play Harvard at Philadelphia on Nov. 4, so that if a Princeton-Old Penn game should turn out to be a reality either Nov. II or Nov. 18 might be agreed upon. As neutral grounds would be desirable, possibly these old rivals might be agreed upon. As neutral grounds would reason why the Tigers and Quakers should not patch un their differences, as they are naturally rivals because of their nearness to each other.

The consolidation papers in the Brooklyn-Bakimore baseball deal will probably not be signed for several days yet. W. G. Byrne and Joseph Boyle, who hold the "Byrne" stock in the Brooklyn Club, met Hanlon, Abell, Ebbets and Vonderhorst at Hedding & Kiddle's yesterday. Byrne was still unable to find sixty-one shares of the stock he is expected to turn over for $10,000, saying that the certificate bad been mishaid. Byrne was asked to file a bond on a quit claim deed for the missing stock. He said he was willing to file a bond for $2,000, but Abell wanted a bond of $6,100, the par value of the stock. It was finally decided to take the matter into court so that a price may be fixed on the stock. Byrne agreed to this, and the deal will hang fire until to-morrow. Abell, Hanlon and Ebbets all said that the hitch was trivial in its importance, and that the papers would be signed in a few days. Abell displayed a roll of $566 bills to show that the cash for Byrne's holdings was ready. Those interested in the deal have now been talking steadily for two months, which is a better record than that held by managers of leading puglists. two months, which is a better record t held by managers of leading puglists.

"Topsy-tury" might be a better title for the novel match, as the course does not take in the open country, but has been arranged by playing the ordinary links criss-cross and in every conceivable way calculated to try the nerve and skill of the Oaklandites. In all the specially arranged nine holes will give a playing length of 4.645 yards. From the first tee the going is to the fourth green, 760 yards, and bristling with bunkers and hazards. One of the main features of the American exhibit will be a carefully managed horse show. Western breeders especially believe that this invasion of foreign territory will ultimately result in the establishment of a regular European market for high-class harness and thoroughbred horses bred in the United States. All communications should be addressed to M. Aifred Pleard. Commissioner-General.

The detailed programme of the athletic and other sporting meetings will be submitted to the Exposition administration before Oct. 1, 1889.

Fatal Boxing Match at Cape Town. Special Cable Despatch to The Sun. CAPE Town, Feb. 8.-A boxing match with fatal result took place here on Monday night, The principals were Private Butler of the King's Royal Rifles and a native known as Kaffir George, lightweights. The Kaffir was outclassed and suffered terrific punishment throughout the bout. In the sixth round he fought gamely, struggling to his feet after receiving several knockdown blows, only to be cored again. Finally, before the round was finished, the Kaffir, after being knocked down crawled under the ropes, and Butler was declared the winner amid the wildest excitement and carried away on the shoulders of his friends.

Place for a Sharkey-Fitzsimmons Fight to Be Discussed To-Day.

Martin Julian, Bob Fitzsimmons's manager, elegraphed to Tom O'Rourke yesterday that he would meet him at the Hotel Bartholdi this afternoon at 4 o'clock for the purpose of arriving at some definite arrangement regarding a match between the champion and Tom Sharkey. Representatives of various clubs throughout the country will be present to offer hids for the contest. Billy Delaney, acting for Jim Jeffries, has also promised to be on hand and throw down the gauntlet for the California fighter to meet either Sharkey or Fitzsimmons. Those who are in a position to know say that Julian will insist on having the battle with Sharkey go to a finish. It is said that Sharkey will ultimately consent, but will hold out as long as he possibly can for a fight scheduled to go a specified number of rounds. Another important question will be the date. Fitzsimmons wants the fight to come off as speedily as possible, while Sharkey is said to profer waiting until the fall. It is reported that Dan Stuart has already offered a purse for the men to fight in Carson City, and that Julian has been authorized to disclose the amount as soon as the articles of agreement are drawn up and signed. afternoon at 4 o'clock for the purpose of arrivsigned.

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—Martin Julian passed through Detroit on his way East to-day. He said he expected to arrange the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey match this week, but Sharkey cannot have six months in which to fight.

PROVIDENCE, R. L. Feb. 8 .- The twentieth nnual meeting of the National Assemby of the League of American Wheelmen was begun in the Y. M. C. A. hall here at 10:30 o'clock this morning, at which time about a hundred delegates were present. The storm, which raged with particular violence in this vicinity, had something to do with abridging the attendance at the opening session, but the delegates kept coming in steadily until in the afternoon the audience was of sufficient size to make the spacious ball appear well filled. The morning session was devoted to "good roads." President Isaac B. Potter officially called the assembly to order. In the course of an opening address of twenty minutes he said: Rhode Island is native soil. Nineteen years ago the League was organized here. It is particularly fitting that since 'good roads day' is the important day of the League it should be held here, for this is essentially a good roads State. A cycle path is the good road for a bicycle, and, as the present generation may not see good roads all over the country, the cycle path will be necessary for the wheelmen. The farmers used to say that the wheelmen wanted good roads built so that they could come out here and ride over them. But it was not all selfish, for after they had built their cycle paths they didn't need the roads. Now it is the farmer who wants a good road, and the farmers are accordingly helping the L. A. who wants a good road, and the farmers are accordingly helping the L. A. W. in its crusade."

E. G. Harrison of Washington stated that he was here to report on the League work. How State aid worked was explained, and then "Farmer" Harrison told how he was going to Louisiana. Wisconsin, lowa, liftnois and Kentucky on a similar mission. If there was a larger appropriation made by Congress for the Road Bureau than now, the speaker explained, more men could be employed in this good roads work and more good could be accomplished. In conclusion he said the combination of a bieyele and good roads was a combination which greatly aided free postal delivery.

Freelove O. Stanley of Worcester, Mass., described the four types of automobile carriages, the cost of building and operating them, their advantages as to speed, and their drawbacks.

Dr. Thomas C. Mendenhall, Chairman of the Massachusetts State Righway Commission and President of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, in referring to the benefit of State highways, said: "Many interesting results have already come from the building of these State roads. Directly they have proved to be of great benefit by reason of the enhanced hauling power of those who used them for heavy traffic. In some instances the cost of hauling at on a mile has been reduced to less than one-quarter what it was before. Manufacturing communities, combelled to deliver their product to a railway station some miles distant, have, by the improvement of their roads, been enabled to compete with more favorably situated establishments in other States, which was before impossible. The value of the farms adjacent has been of value as affording an example of good road building. Should the schemes now accepted be conti will in time be covered with a network of these fine highways, connecting all principal centres of population."

The afternoon session was preceded by a reception which was particularly enjoyable. The band played, state and municipal dignitaries hobmobbed with the wheelmen and Gen. Stone received an ovation. Gov. Dyer of Rhode Island and Mayor Baker of Providence were greeted by the discriminating wheelmen in a befitting manner, and altogether the rounion was of the joiliest pattern.

Gov. Dyer presided at the meeting, which began formally at 2:30 o clock. After welcoming the wheelmen heartily he spoke of the early roads in the settlement, and pointed out how much had been done by the wheelmen for the improvement of highways. After referring to the ancient Roman roads, he said that he was at the great good roads meeting in Washington, where he had met Gen. Stone.

The General was introduced amid applause. He spoke of the Spanish military roads in Porto Rico, their good design and construction and also their unfinished state, which makes them of little practical value. Lack of bridges, he said, was a great trouble. He recommended as the first step the construction of bridges over the Fortuguese, Bucana, Inabon, and the Western branch of the Jacagues, rivers on the road between Fonce and the Juana Dinz. The only section of military road that may be considered fully completed is that from Cayey on the main Ponce and San Juan road to Gunyama. The other military roads are mere fragments of intended lines.

Conway A. Sauus, Chief Consul of Maryland, speke on "Good Roads Agitation," and Joseph A. Latham gave stereopticon views of some superb highways of the Ud World, some bad ones in this country and a few in Rhode Island which are of superior character.

The delegates from Detroit provided popular souvenir buttons and ribbons as first shots in a campaign to secure the next annual meeting of the League.

The officers of the L. A. W. and several members of the National Assembly were guests at the annual banquet under the auspices of the Providence Horse Improvement Association at the Eloise this evening. The speakers included Gov. Dyer, Mayor Baker, Sterling Elliott, Conrad Sands, and Freelove O. Stanley, At a caucus held this evening the New York delegates could not agree on the unit rule. In the same room at the Bartholdi Hotel in which William J. Bryan of Nebraska and Charles W. Miller of Chicago, who won two sixday cycle races, slept while they were in town there was held a meeting last night for the purpose of defining the term "amateur wheelman" and devising the rules under which such a person should race. The meeting was called by the National Cycling Association. Invitations were sent to all the race promoting clubs. Eight clubs were represented Whether or not it was some inspiration that clung to the apartment, there was oratory of many descriptions, and great "staying power" was evinced by those who debated upon the degree of nureness that should be possessed by an amateur. There was diversity of opinion concerning whether the new association should be more strict or more liberal in the regulation of amateur racing. The question of the remission of dues, payment of entry fees and travelling expenses for the benefit of its racing men by clubs was argued at length, as well as the relative "pureness" of the cycle club and college amateurs. Mucholdstraw was threshed and some interesting points were made, but harmony of ideas was not attained. If. Anthony Brock of the Palmer Club, Jersey City, presided, and C. H. Weeks of the Biverside Wheelmen acted as Secretary. The one definite thing accomplished was the appointment of a committee to frame the amateur rules for the new association. The Chairman appointed George A. Needham, Kings County Wheelmen; J. M. Gentle, Hiverside Wheelmen, and A. Kennedy, Niantic Wheelmen. Those present included:

J. M. Gentle, C. H. Weeks, Riversade Wheelmen; N. Mchutyre, A. Meduire, Greenwich Wheelmen; N. Mchutyre, A. Meduire, Greenwich Wheelmen; N.

The Nominating Committee of the National Cycling Association met yesterday and named men to ill the offices that were left vacant at the meeting when the association was organized to take control of racing. As there will be no opposition the nominations are tantamount to formal election. The action is considered by the association as a fine show of defiance to the L. A. W., which is now holding its annual session. Fred B. House of the Harlem Wheelmen was not formally nominated, but he is the choice of committee, and only a remote contingency will prevent him from being the chosen leader. The other officers are: First Vies-President, Heary J. Bloenecke, Newark, N. J.: Second Vies-President, J. M. Gentle, Riverside Wheelmen, New York; Secretary, P. Anthony Brock, Jersey City; R. F. Kelsey of Harlford, to represent New England in the Board of Control, was named by the committee. In order to prevent any question as to the methods of the new association, a Board of Appeals, consisting of persons who are well known in the sport, will be instituted. This court of appeals will pass on the rulings of the Board of Control, and any actions they may take will be regarded as alsolutely final. These men have been asked to serve on the Board of Appeals for the ensuing year: Chairman, G. A. Needham, Kings County Wheelmen; Sterling Elliott, Howard E. Raymond, Chicago, and C. E. Simms, Jr., President of the Associated Cycling Clubs of New York.

Policeman with a Liking for Pie Among Them-Trouble in the Boarding House. Mary Corrigan, a former waltiess in Mrs. Susan Smith's boarding house at an last Twenty-first street, brought suit in the Yorkville Municipal Court vesterday against her former employer for $7.50 alleged to be due her as wages. She said she received some of her pay during the month and a half she worked in the boarding house, but when she left there two weeks ago Mrs. Smith refused to give her the remainder.

The defendant testified that she would not give the money because the girl had left her employ before her time was up.

"Besides, I do not think the $7.50 would half ompensate me for the annovance she caused." vent on the defendant. "The girl has an at-went on the defendant. "The girl has an attractive lace and gentlemen were much attracted to her. I have a number of ladies among my boarders, and this was very annoying to them."

"She monopolized the gentlemen boarders, did she?" asked Justice Bolte.
"Oh, no. I don't mean that," responded the boarding-house keeper. "She had beaux of her own and entertained them downstairs too often.
"How can you say such things you know aren't true?" interrupted the plaintiff.
"The first night that I found her sitting with a young man downstairs I dian't mind," the defendant continued. "She introduced him as her cousin, but I suspected be was her sweethcart. Two nights afterward I happened to go downstairs and saw a different young man sitting with her. She introduced him as another cousin. Four or five nights a week she had cousins all of them young mencome to sit up with her.
"It's a lie, broke in the plaintiff.
"Tut' tut! young woman. You must not use such language in court," admonished the Justice.

A young man stood up in court, and, saying that he was Mrs. Smith's son, declared that what his mother had testified to was true.
"I warned her that she must have tewer sweethcarts calling to see her," the defendant continued, "but it did no good. One of her beaux was a pediceman who had a great fondness for cake and pie."
"How can you tell such stories?" broke in ness for cake and pie.

"How can you tell such stories?" broke in the plaintiff. "Judge, that isn't true. I can get a dozen girls who had to leave this woman because they couldn't put up with her ways.

The Justice gave judgment for the plaintiff for the $7.50 claimed.

CHANGES IN TRINITY CHOIR In a Year, Under New Direction, Its Membership Has Been Completely Changed. Charles Foster, President of the Fruit Exchange at 76 Park place, has resigned fro choir of Trinity Church, thereby severing a connection which has been continuous for twenty years. Every other man who was a member of the choir prior to the time that Victor Majer succeeded Dr. Messiter, something over a year ago, has already left the organization, so that from the time Mr. Foster's resignation takes effect the choir will ter's resignation takes effect the choir will have been entirely reorganized. This reorganization has not only resulted in a complete change in the persons composing the choir, but also in several considerable changes in the salaries paid to the singers. The determining factor resulting in Mr. Foster's resignation was a reduction of his salary from $400 to $300 a year. A good deal of dissatisfaction has been caused by the dropping of men who had been members of the choir for a long time and the reduction of the salaries of others. Many of those who have left the choir have done so voluntarily.

It is urged by these dissatisfied ones that the choir organization is not so good new as it was under Dr. Messiter; that the members are hired at the lowest possible salary and are constantly changed, whereby the distinction that once attached to membership in the organization is lost. The church congregation, however, has found no fault, and Mr. Maier has often been congratulated upon the quality of the music in the church. A definite allowance is made by the Vestry Board for music, outside of the salaries of the choirmaster and his assistant. Mr. Maier has the handling of this, turning in receipts for all his expenditures at the end of each quarter. In his reorganization he had advanced some salaries and cut some down, but the aggregate of all, it is said, remains the same. have been entirely reorganized. This reorgan-
